

SIREN

Gemma Dobson, better known by her stage name SIREN, is a British Drum and Bass Music Producer and DJ.

SIREN leans towards the harder side of DnB in her sets honing on her technical, creative and energetic mixing skills.

In her own words “I am defining my sound within the scene, I want to set my own standard from my production with a repertoire of turbulent soundscapes, flawless mixdowns and heart-stopping DJ sets.”

This year SIREN has been a guest on the UK’s biggest Radio station for Drum and Bass, BBC Radio 1 and did a guest mix for Diplo’s Revolution in the US.

At the 2023 Drum and Bass Awards SIREN was nominated and came second place in 2 categories:

BBC Radio 1 Best Breakthrough Producer

BBC Radio 1 Best Breakthrough DJ

All of her releases to date have had main stream radio play on BBC Radio 1, Kiss FM and BBC Introducing.

Two of her self released tracks were made the cover of the worlds biggest DnB playlist on Spotify ‘Massive Drum & Bass’, one of which has been licensed to Universals U-NXT, whilst also receiving support from Andy C, Koven, A.M.C, Doc Scott, Monroe and Mollie Collins.

Highlights for 2022 included playing 8 dates in Ibiza to support Chase & Status for their residency at Eden, and supported Netsky on his stage at Tomorrowland and Printworks and was support to Noisia at Nibirii Festival in Germany.

This year 2023, she continues with key festivals in the UK and Europe as well as her first New Zealand and Australia Tour supporting Wilkinson and Black Sun Empire.

SIREN is currently working hard on new music with several releases and collaborations planned for later on this year.
